Spook Fans Forced to Wait Ghost Hunter is Satisfied; Reports in New York

HALIFAX, March 12.—Dr. Walter Franklin Prince, investigating officer of the American Institute of Psycho Research, has laid the Cheltenham ghost to his own satisfaction. This much is conceded by those who were instrumental in bringing the widely known expert on matters psychic to Nova Scotia. But what manner of ghost it was which drove the MacDonald family out of their home in the dead of winter, took liberties with the MacDonald cattle and subsequently played phantom pranks with a provincial detective and a newspaper reporter bent on interviewing him, is a matter, it is announced, that will remain a dark secret until the doctor wills it otherwise.

MODEL COTTAGE NOW OWNED BY MRS. H. KNIGHT

Lucky Couple Is Drawn from Tunk by Four-year-old Child

NO CLAIM AS YET

Winner Has Not Presented Her Claim to the Proper Officials

While thousands of men, women and children crowded in and around the Market Building Saturday night, the Home Building exhibition was brought to a close with the announcing of the name of the lucky winner of the model cottage.

Mrs. H. A. Knight, Jr., Suite 21, Leamington apartments, was the name and address contained on the coupon which four-year-old Ruth Simons, handed to Acting Mayor James T. J. Collins from the coupon tank.

Mrs. Knight has not yet presented her claim to the proper officials, so no definite award has been made as yet.

Early in the evening the crowd commenced to file into the Market Building, and the first prize was won by a four-year-old child. The idea was quickly dispelled, however, when the crowd was told that the prize was a model cottage.

At an interval of 15 minutes to allow everyone to finish depositing their coupons, the drawing was held. The name of the lucky winner was called out, and the prize was a model cottage.

The drawing was held in the Market Building, and the prize was a model cottage. The name of the lucky winner was called out, and the prize was a model cottage.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAYS PROJECT DESIRABLE

Edmonton, Mar. 11.—The St. Lawrence waterway project is desirable from the standpoint of the country as a whole and is feasible as an engineering feat in the opinion of a committee appointed by the Associated Industries of Manufacturers, which reported yesterday on the investigation of the project.

PERPLEXITY AND SURPRISE FOLLOW S.S. DEMAND

Pointed Comment Being Made By French About America's Rhineland Expenses.

Paris, Mar. 11.—The allied finance ministers met at ten o'clock this morning and were in session until noon, considering the situation created by the memorandum handed to the representatives of the commission yesterday by Roland W. Borah, the representative of the United States to the commission, asking the payment of $241,000,000.

Paris, Mar. 11.—The demand by the United States for reimbursement to the extent of $241,000,000 for the expense of the forces in the Rhineland before any reparations are paid has provoked surprise and perplexity in French official circles. There is also some pointed comment in several of the morning newspapers. A French semi-official statement says that the United States is asking for the amount when the accord based on the Chinese project was about to be realized, and that it tended to destroy the whole system of reparations as a laboratory elaborated by the allied experts.

The Echo De Paris declares it is undoubtedly too late to give the United States the share of the one billion gold marks paid by Germany on August 10, 1919, as the British and French already have received their share.

The allies certainly cannot refuse to give the United States its due, the newspaper adds, but "this question will be determined by what utility is an American army on the Rhine if it is not in political cooperation with the allied governments."

The Martin thinks the United States is in a somewhat paradoxical situation in law because the United States is at the same time responsible to and independent of the allies—responsible in its claims, and independent in the political regarding Germany, with which it has a separate treaty.

The newspaper declares that if the United States persists in this claim the British and French and the sums the French government expects are appreciably decreased.

By the ruling of Judge Crawford in the district court here Friday the conviction returned against Jack Markland and Jack Chasen in the lower court was declared void and a new trial was ordered.

On November 18, 1921, on the charge of unlawfully assaulting and molesting a woman, the two men were convicted by Judge Crawford, by striking him with their fists and kicking him with their feet.

Following their conviction they were sentenced to three weeks' imprisonment without the option of paying a fine.

On behalf of the prisoners, application was made for their release from jail pending the appeal from the magistrate's decision, by James A. McFarley, acting as their counsel.

When he carried the argument to the appeal court was successful in securing the setting aside of the conviction registered against the two men.

A President.

The resignation of the recent revolt of the Unionists against the continuation of the coalition Government, Mr. Anstey Chamberlain is said to have Mr. Lloyd George's resignation in his pocket. So had Premier Asquith.

A Contest in Destruction.

With another million men idle in England because of a deadlock in the building trades, South Africa going through the agonies of a general strike, and this continent on the eve of a coal mine tie-up, there are three sections of the earth seem to be plunging into a three-cornered contest to see which of them can do itself the most damage.

South Africa Threatened.

In South Africa the Federation of Trades Unions has called a general strike, and what looks very like a strike war has begun. Perhaps there is some novelty in the use of bringing about readjustment than by calling a general strike, but it has not yet been discovered. And it may be that there have been times when a general strike would do more damage in any known country than it would at present, but the case has not been cited. One thing is clear above all other and lesser considerations: the country that is tied up by a general strike under present conditions is doomed to follow up by legislation that will fall on any of them on sheep and rocky road to reconstruction.

Why the Women Factory?

The Provincial Government is taking power to appoint an official overseer, or several of them, to supervise women's organizations in Alberta. Just what the women have done to be thus singled out for suspicion and official surveillance is not made very clear. If the idea is to hand out Government doles to all organizations which will submit to the Government will finders the taxpayers will have cause to complain as well as the women.

Putting Brakes on Business.

On demand from the recent convention of Dairywomen, the Legislature is enacting that hereafter no buying station for milk shall be operated in Alberta. The wisdom of creating such a precedent is not by any means assured. If it is to be illegal for one man to buy cream at a local railway point, what about allowing another man to buy grain at a local elevator, or one man to buy hogs at a way station for re-shipment to the packing plants? Is it proposed to follow up by legislation that the farmer must also ship his grain and beef cattle and eggs directly to the ultimate buyer, and may not dispose of them to a local dealer?

A President.

The resignation of the recent revolt of the Unionists against the continuation of the coalition Government, Mr. Anstey Chamberlain is said to have Mr. Lloyd George's resignation in his pocket. So had Premier Asquith.

A Contest in Destruction.

With another million men idle in England because of a deadlock in the building trades, South Africa going through the agonies of a general strike, and this continent on the eve of a coal mine tie-up, there are three sections of the earth seem to be plunging into a three-cornered contest to see which of them can do itself the most damage.

South Africa Threatened.

In South Africa the Federation of Trades Unions has called a general strike, and what looks very like a strike war has begun. Perhaps there is some novelty in the use of bringing about readjustment than by calling a general strike, but it has not yet been discovered. And it may be that there have been times when a general strike would do more damage in any known country than it would at present, but the case has not been cited. One thing is clear above all other and lesser considerations: the country that is tied up by a general strike under present conditions is doomed to follow up by legislation that will fall on any of them on sheep and rocky road to reconstruction.
